THE BEAVER ARGUS.

Vol. 54—No. 20. Beaver, Pa., Wednesday, May 22, 1872. Established 1818.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements are inserted at the rate of $1.00 per square for first insertion, and for each subsequent insertion 50 cents. A liberal discount made on yearly advertisements.

A space equal to ten lines of this type measures a square.

Business Notices set under a head by themselves immediately after the local news, will be charged ten cents a line for each insertion.

Advertisements should be handed in before Monday noon to insure insertion in that week's paper.

THE BEAVER ARGUS

Is published every Wednesday in the old Argus building on Third Street, Beaver, Pa., at $2 per year in advance.

Communications on subjects of local or general interest are respectfully solicited. To insure attention favors of this kind must invariably be accompanied by the name of the author.

Letters and communications should be addressed to

J. WEYAND, Beaver, Pa.

ROSADALIS

THE INGREDIENTS THAT COMPOSE ROSADALIS are published on every package, therefore it is not a secret preparation, consequently

PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT

It is a certain cure for Scrofula, Syphilis in all its forms, Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Liver Complaint and all diseases of the Blood.

ONE BOTTLE OF ROSADALIS

will do more good than ten bottles of the Syrups of Sarsaparilla.

THE UNDERSIGNED PHYSICIANS

have used Rosadalis in their practice for the past three years and freely endorse it as a reliable Alterative and Blood Purifier.

SELECT MISCELLANY.

HOW I MARRIED THE CAPTAIN.

I had never had an adventure. I think most people counted me a very quiet girl, drifted likea sea-shell into a corner of the great world. The tides passed over my head; there was shipwreck and disaster; there was sailing out of agonies; there was dancing and music among the voyagers; but nothing surged me up out of my sea-swept niche. Poor Elizabeth Grey! I said aloud, will the tide ever reach you.

All this sea talk, I think, grew out of a little pink dress I was sewing on that morning. Rosy Fox was going to Europe, and this was one of a dozen or two tiny dresses I had made for her. Going to Europe! Rosy—a little prattling thing that didn't yet know one street from another in her native city. What would she do in Europe—what would Europe do for her? But for me the very thought seemed like a glimpse of heaven—a sweet, forbidden glimpse; for what had I to do with change, or pleasure, or excitement?

A seamstress, orderly, exemplary—an orphan who had decently buried her mother, and who creditably supported her little brother at school—such was my brief outward record.

This morning a strange restlessness beset me; an unaccountable yearning, like a wooing whiff of ocean air, beckoned me away. Why should I stay and vegetate in one spot forever? Could I not earn my living elsewhere as well as here? Did not folks use needles in Kamschatka and in New Zealand? Could I not take my needle to another market?

The thought stood on the verge of my mind, hovering, timorous, unreal, its wing poised for flight. I had no money. Vision vanished, and in the gray after-light my patch looked dustier, darker, more straitened than ever.

But this was not to be a day like other days, it stands apart in my memory now, illuminating that whole year, as I have seen a clump of cardinal flowers illumine a whole gray meadow.

A knock came at the open door of my room, and it was flung back sharp and suddenly. Very few visitors ever climbed to my little third-story apartment, seldom any one but testy Madame Padwelle, for whom I worked. This could not the madame's footstep, so heavy and brisk. I looked up, and there stood Captain David, my mother's old friend.

A tall, big-boned, grizzled man, quick decided, and full of vigor as a Northern pine, with a flavor of oldtime quaintness about him—a thrifty well-to-do man, whose ship had carried freight into almost every port on the globe, but chiefly to the West Indies.

I had not seen the captain since I was a little girl, but I knew his face and figure instantly. The tall hat he wore when in landsman's rig, the red bandana he flourished, were things of memory. Many an odd sea-shell had he brought me, and many a dainty from far-off lands had shown his remembrance of my mother. His sharp gray eye was full of kindly humanity; I remembered that eye and how it stood to me in childhood for illimitable geographical knowledge, glimpses of polar seas and fathomless waters, and all the unspeakable mysteries of the unknown world.

"Well, my little girl, how's all the folks?" said the captain, taking off his steeple-crowned hat as he entered.

The familiar voice, the hearty grasp of his muscular hand, took me back to my girlhood again; for an instant it seemed as if my mother were living, and all the weight of care and loneliness were lifted from my shoulders. Only an instant. The tears gathered in my eyes, and I said, abruptly.

"There are no folks, captain."

The captain's countenance fell. He seemed inwardly to reprove himself for his hasty pleasantry, recollecting that this was the time for conventional solemnity. Seating himself with gingerly care on one of my slim-legged chairs, he wiped his forehead with his red bandana.

"I know, I know," he said uneasily. "I mean—how's Jim?", with a hasty clutch at the name, as if to save himself from further mishap.

"Oh," said I, cheerfully, anxious to put him at his ease, "Jim's doing famously. He'll take the prize in languages at his school next year."

"And you are working yourself to death to stuff the lad with Greek and Latin?"

I fell to laughing. "No, captain, not exactly. But Jim's too smart and too good to be kept in the city, and I have to be away so much of the time sewing."

"You look like it," said the captain, gruffly. "What do you live on? Shirts at sixpence apiece?"

"No, indeed!" I cried indignantly. "I sew on pretty things—robes and dresses; see this!" and I held up Rosy's pretty pink dress. It glowed in the sunshine, its flounces and frillings trembling about like a superabundant growth of petals.

The captain eyed it approvingly. "Pretty enough," he said. It's got all your color in it, my little girl.'

It was long since I had heard any one express kindly interest in me, and the words thrilled me with a strange feeling, intense, exquisite, allied to pain.

"You ought to have a change of air," said the captain, seeing I made no answer.

The pretty dress seemed freighted with the visions I had had while making it. Rosy glimpses out of the matter-of-course drudgery, the dingy and ashen hue of my habitual life, opened out of its folds.

"Captain," said I, abruptly, as I laid it carefully away, "how much does it cost to go to the West Indies?"

"By steam?"

"No; in your ship."

"Oh," said the captain, "I'm not fitted up for passengers. A tight little craft enough, but only to carry freight. Why? Know any one going?"

"I am. Captain let me be freight. Stow me away in the hatch or anywhere, only let me go! See, I have thirty dollars to pay my passage;" and I held up my purse. Jim's quarter's all paid too!"

THE Connecticut Legislature elected Hon. O. S. Ferry to the U. S. Senate from that State on Tuesday, the 14th inst., over General Hawley the caucus nominee of the Republican party. A sufficient number of Republicans were found to disregard party trammels and vote with the Democrats for General Ferry, who is a sound Republican, and the present incumbent from that State. He did good service to his country during the rebellion.

THE little corporal, when on the witness stand at Pittsburgh, in the famous Quay-Commercial-libel suit, testified that he was worth only $16,500. We want to know now if he did not, a very short time afterwards, make an affidavit when going on an official bond, that he was worth $25,000? If this be so, why should his naked word be taken for anything he says or prints? Can any one tell us?

"Mr. Dravo was one of the Committee sent to Harrisburg last winter by the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange to defeat the legislation asked for by the miners and workmen, and made a strong speech against them."—Radical

We have not the facts before us in relation to the matter spoken of in the above paragraph, but have no hesitation in pronouncing it a falsehood as belying the whole course of Mr. Dravo's life, which has been that of a working man. His opponent never was a laborer.

"The officers of the General Election Board of 1870 will please take notice that the Beaver Argus's charges them with committing Shurlock in—that is to say that they made a false and fraudulent return of his election."—Radical

The ARGUS says "he was counted in a-la Philadelphia." It says "the little corporal" and his gang procured a sufficient number of fraudulent votes in the borough of Phillipsburg, at the primary election, to "count Shurlock in" over Chandler, and then secreted or destroyed the tally-papers.

As a specimen of the chaste, high-toned, argumentive style of the editorials of "the little corporal" in the Radical, we give publicity to the following. In alluding to the Argus it says:

"It has slandered like a serpent, lied without stint where lies would answer, forged when forgery became necessary, and hailed at no other meanness or villainy to serve its low spites or minister to the success of its political treachery."

—With the reading public it will be perceived no answer but one in kind could be given to the above; and in that the Argus does not indulge.

"The Beaver Radical and its editor always have supported the Republican ticket, and will support it for this year at least, without a scratch from top to bottom—from Grant to Trustees of the Academy."—Radical.

"The little Corporal's" pledges are not worth much. He once pledged himself to Andrew G. Curtin for U. S. Senate, but the evidence of his broken faith stands on the corner of the Diamond, from one room of which weekly issues the medium through which he seeks so to debauch the Republican party as to be able still to bleed it, or failing in that, to destroy its organization. If the editor of the Radical did not vote against Arthur Shields he is sorely belied. It is believed he did unquestionably vote for Dr. Shurlock, the fraudulent nominee against Dr. Chandler; and for which the party subsequently rebuked him and his "ring" by defeating Dr. Shurlock, as they will do Rutan should he be nominated.

"In 1850 it (the ARGUS) opposed the regular Republican nominee for Assembly and supported an independent Republican, while its editor and his leading friends voted for the Democratic candidate."—Radical.

In 1870 "the little Corporal," Mr. Rutan and their entire "ring" voted against the regular Republican candidate—Dr. Chandler for Assembly—and for the candidate whose nomination was procured through the Phillipsburg, Darlington and Beaver Falls frauds. The people hold these things in remembrance, as Dr. Shurlock can testify. The time has come when the people will no longer suffer their wishes to be stifled by political gamblers. "The little Corporal," we are told, has boasted, since the occurrence of the frauds alluded to, that he "could purchase as many Democratic votes as would secure the election of his nominees." It may be so; but will the people stand by nominations thus fraudulently made? Let the experience of the past answer.

"For three years it (the ARGUS) has maintained a ceaseless warfare against the Republican organization and the candidates of its party."—Radical.

Five years and a little over have transpired since the editor of the Radical sold the Senatorship of Pennsylvania to Simon Cameron and through the "political ring" afterwards organized, procured the election of a State Treasurer over a Beaver county Republican who had been his bosom friend; and with the proceeds of the sale and a portion of the interest on the unexpended balances of the Treasury, established the Radical newspaper and instituted a series of movements by which he could purchase, wheedle and drive the Republican party of this county into the support of dishonest men and dishonest measures. Against these, and to maintain the high standard of Republican principles the ARGUS has labored, and will continue to labor so long as corrupt men are nominated and corrupt means used to promote their election.

THE DEMOCRATS, of the State of New York, held their State Convention in Rochester, N. Y., last Wednesday, and adopted a platform, recognizing the changes in our National Constitution, and without a desire to reopen the questions of the past, say they are now ready to co-operate with those, whatever their previous party affiliations, who favor united and localized governments: who seek to restrain the exercise by Congress of absolute and general powers; to prevent its entering on general private legislation; to restrain the growth of vast corporations and to work a permanent Civil Service Reform. In their resolutions they declare that the declaration of political principles, by the Convention recently held in Cincinnati, is evidence of the progress of public opinion toward sound and wholesome views of government; that they believe all patriotic citizens may unite upon that platform for the purpose of restoring an honest administration of national affairs, and enforcing the obligations of the constitution; and they instructed their delegates to the Baltimore Convention to take the course best calculated to secure the triumph of these principles, and the selection of any candidates representing them who shall meet the approval of the Democracy in National Convention assembled.

AND now comes one "W. S. McElhose, operator," who states that the telegram purporting to have been sent by Mr. J. S. Rutan to Mr. M. S. Quay, is not genuine, and that neither Mr. Dravo, nor the editor of the ARGUS called upon him to ascertain if it was a forgery. We plead guilty to not calling on McElhose, on the ground that we were not aware of his presence in this vicinity: and again we did not suppose that the Beaver operator had control of all the telegraph offices in the vicinity. Nor do we believe yet that he has, and if he has not, how can he know that the telegram is not genuine? The dispatch might have been written in Beaver, dated at Beaver, and put upon the wire at Rochester, New Brighton, or even at Pittsburgh. However we may safely conclude that McElhose knows as much about the transaction as any other little boy, and no more; and we judge the less he meddles with the local politics of Beaver and vicinity, the more faithfully will he discharge the duties which the telegraph company sent him here to perform.

THE little Corp. and his friend Rutan, produce a column of figures in the last Radical, to show that the contest for the Sheriffalty lays between Messrs. White, Darragh, and Winter.

The Radical people say these figures are obtained from "responsible parties" and are "reliable." Now, we will be perfectly satisfied with the nomination of either of the gentlemen above named, but is it just to Messrs. James Patterson, J. P. Martin, Charles Johnston, C. K. Chamberlin, J.S. Little, John Boyle, J. W. D. Smith, and Arthur Shields, to parade their supposed weakness before the public, just on the eve of the primary meeting? Not by any means, and everybody knows it is only done now to induce the people to believe their votes will only be "thrown away" to give them to either of the eight candidates above named. No candidate likes to have his friends seduced away from him in this disreputable but ingenious way, and we will be much mistaken if these alleged weak candidates for Sheriff, do not give Messrs. Quay and Rutan a Roland for their Oliver before the canvass winds up.

"If (the ARGUS) indorsed the Irwin-Mackey ball."—Radical

When Curtin was sold to Cameron it was found necessary to use a large sum of money to accomplish Cameron's triumph in the Legislature. How this could be accomplished was planned by the "Great Financier," Cameron. In such matters he is so great a proficient, that the "Old Commoner," Thaddeus Stevens, declared there was no use for him to try to compete with Cameron for the U. S. Senate, as "he could buy up the Pennsylvania Legislature." He did so. He must be reimbursed for his outlays, and to effect this he must control the State Treasury. As the incumbent of that office could not be manipulated in his interest, it was fixed by the "ring" in '69 that Gen. Irwin should be ousted and R. W. Mackey—a ring man—elected. This programme succeeded, he was elected, and the interest on the unexpended balances of the public money duly shared among the ring leaders. Cameron knew how to take care of his money matters; and Mackey had to foot the bill. Another term of office for Mackey was thought essential to make it a good thing for him, and he was put forward by the plunderers as candidate for State Treasurer. Meantime, some of the honest Republicans of the Senate thought proper to cry "halt," in this wholesale game of manipulating and selling offices of emolument for selfish and partizan aims, and squandering the public treasure in individual aggrandizement. They united with the Democrats and elected Gen. Irwin State Treasurer. The ARGUS battled against the system of political corruption above exhibited. The Radical defends and upholds it. Judge ye, who creates dissensions in the Republican party.

MR. RUTAN, we presume; professes to be a public economist. He took, as we are informed, three persons from this county last winter to Harrisburg. They were as follows: J. R. Harrah, clerk to apportionment committee, and charge of Speaker's room; J. B. Vance, paster and folder; and H. W. Nelson, paster and folder. Mr. Harrah drew from the State Treasury one thousand dollars for his "services," and the other two drew nine hundred dollars each for their "services." Now give to each county in the State the same number of room keepers and pasters and folders at Harrisburg last winter that Beaver county had, and we have a total of 198 men, exclusive of the members and their officers, who were in the employ of the Legislature last winter. These, at a salary of $900, each would filch from the pockets of the people, about $175,000 in the short space of three months. Of course it will be claimed that there were not so many irregular employes, and that Beaver county had more than its share of the sc who were there last winter. Very well, but that don't help Mr. Rutan any, for it only shows, that he had less regard for the people's interest and was more anxious to plunder the State treasury than any of his colleagues. Of course, we wish it understood, that if there is any legitimate employment for outsiders at Harrisburg during our legislative sessions, we would prefer to see Beaver county men obtain it, but we are averse to quartering anybody on the State Treasury who has nothing to do, simply because he wears Mr. Rutan's or anybody else's collar.

On this pasting and folding question we trust the ARGUS will not be misunderstood. We have repeatedly stated that we could take the six or seven hands employed in our office and do all the pasting and folding that is done at Harrisburg each winter, and yet some 50 or 60 men are employed every session, at $900.00, each, to do it. The truth is, three-fourths of these persons, while they are ostensibly pasters and folders, are in fact, but servants for the Senators and Representatives who take them there. Against frauds of this character, the ARGUS stands arrayed, and for opposing them, it encounters the fierce hostility of those who reap and expect to reap their benefits. We are content with our position on that and all other questions of a similar character.

Forty-Second Congress.

SECOND SESSION.

SENATE, May 14.—The bill to establish a district court in the Indian Territory was passed. The Senate then took up the bill to extend until the fourth of March, 1878, the time within which the President may suspend the writ habeas corpus. The bill was laid aside and the Senate took up the report of the committee of conference on the deficiency bill, which was discussed until half-past four when the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—Several pension bills and the bill qualifying the pension law passed. The Senate amendments to the naval appropriation bill were then adopted.

SENATE, May 15.—From the committee on military affairs was reported a bill to provide crutches for soldiers and sailors disabled during the late war. The Baltimore and Potomac railroad was taken up and discussed until adjournment.

HOUSE.—Bills from the judiciary committee were reported and passed as follows: To establish uniform time for Presidential elections. The house bill providing for stenographers for the United States Circuit Courts.

SENATE, May 16.—The following bills were reported from the Committee on Indian Affairs and passed: To enable the Secretary of War to pay the expenses incurred in suppressing Indian hostilities in Montana in 1867. To secure homesteads to actual settlers on the public domain. A report was made on the naval appropriation bill which was concurred in.

HOUSE.—A bill was passed authorizing defendants in United States Courts to testify in their own behalf. Several bills of no general interest were passed.

SENATE, May 17.—The House resolution to adjoin on the 3d of June was referred to the committee on Finance. The river and harbor bill was reported and made the special order for Tuesday. The home bill to provide for the better security of life on steamboats was passed. The habeas corpus suspension act was discussed and ordered to be finally disposed of next Tuesday. The annual Fortification appropriation bill passed. The report on the Indian appropriation bill was agreed to.

HOUSE.—The report of the Conference Committee on the bill to provide houses for the Pottowattamie Indians was agreed to. The tariff was tinkered at some length, but without concluding the subject, the committee rose and the House adjourned.

For the Beaver Argus.

"What I Know about Rings."

EDITOR ARGUS:—The Cameron Ring of politicians of Beaver, from the little Corporal down to the humblest "whipper-in," are justly alarmed at the movements of the people, and to counteract the indignation which their shameless trickery has aroused, are just now lustily shouting "Irwin Ring" &c. It is the old sham, of crying out "stop thief" so long used by the "trade" to divert the attention of the detective from the trail. It will be admitted, in order to break up these infamous rings which are nestling in and around almost every county seat of this Commonwealth, deriving their animus and vitality from the great Arch Ring Master Simon Cameron, there must be counter combinations, but, if when these "Rings," now so odious to honest Republicans, are broken up, which they will surely be, if these combinations continue, then they in turn must be broken up also. A single illustration will make our meaning plain—Frequently a ring of horse thieves will so oversawe a community and so defy the legal authorities as to make the organization of Vigilant Committees a necessity; but, if, after hanging the thieves and breaking up the ring, the Vigilant Committee should seek to perpetuate its rule it would justly become offensive and would have to be put down by a stronger power than the local authorities, so when these thieving political rings that are robbing the people, imposing unjust taxes on the estates of widows and orphans, giving away sums of one thousand dollars for three or four weeks of pretended work to reward some ring followers and to divide secretly among themselves, are dispersed by these combinations of the people, the necessity which justified their formation having passed away, so they will doubtless cease to exist and the party left free to go on with its great work of administering the "government of the people for the people."

The palefaces take heart, the scandalous domination of the few who spend their summers in Beaver and their winters in Harrisburg is near an end. The "hand writing is on the wall," their howlings over their utter rout in the Convention of School Directors; the open betrayals of candidates which they have promised support; the fair-faced swapping to save Rutan; the snarlings of the New Brighton Press and the ravings of the Radical; are straws which show which way and how hard the wind is blowing. The end draweth nigh, and let all the people say amen.

LOOKOUT, May 18th 1872.

HORRIBLE MASSACRE!

Shot, Scalped, and Burned.—Battle With the Fiends!—Revolting Details!

A report has been received at the War Department, giving details of a massacre by Indians, Mexicans and negros combined, of persons in charge of a train of supplies en route to Fort Stockton, at Howard's Well, near old Fort Lancaster. The facts as reported to General Auger by Col. Merritt of the Ninth Cavalry, under date of April 29, from Clark are given as follows: On the 20th instant I arrived with the cavalry of my command at Howard's Well, a few hours too late to prevent one of the most horrible massacres that has ever been perpetrated on this frontier. A Mexican train loaded with United States commissary and ordnance stores, on its way from San Antonio to Fort Stockton, was attacked by Indians plundered and burned. All the people with the train, seventeen souls in all, were either killed or wounded, except one woman. My command buried eleven bodies and brought three wounded men and one woman into this post. Before arriving at the burning train, the first intimation we had of the horrible disaster was the charred and blackened corpses of some of the poor victims, but no one was alive to tell the horrors of the affair. I supposed up to this time that Captain Sheridan, with the infantry of my command, was in camp at Howard's Well, about a mile from the scene of the massacre, and while yet some distance from the point, the smoke of the burning wagons, mistaken for his camp fires, confirmed me in this belief. I knew at least that a sergeant and four men were at the well in charge of forage. The command moved rapidly toward the well, when the sergeant in charge of the detachment at that point was met and pointed out the course the Indians had taken with the animals belonging to the train. In less time than it takes to tell it the trail was found and rapid pursuit at once made by companies A and H of the Ninth Cavalry, commanded respectively by Captain Cooney and Lieutenant Vincent.

After following the trail some seven or eight miles the cavalry came upon the Indians in force on the summit of an almost impassable bluff. There a fight occurred, in which, I regret to say Lieutenant Vincent fell, mortally wounded, while boldly leading and attempting to control his men. He died shortly after returning to camp, about ten o'clock that night. Captain Cooney was painfully, though not seriously, injured by his horse falling while moving at a rapid gait. He, however, remounted and retained his command. The men of his company behaved very well, but being in great part recruits, without experience in Indian fighting, which was in Company H to a still greater extent, they squandered their ammunition. The lack of ammunition made a protracted pursuit of the Indians impracticable. A woman who escaped reports that six were killed in the fight. Words fail to convey an idea of the sickening atrocities committed by the demons who overpowered the train men. Several of them were taken alive, tied to wagons and burned. An old woman was carried some distance from the place of attack, and then shot and scalped. Her grand-child had its ears cut off, was shot, and had its brains smashed out; while her daughter, the mother of the child, who witnessed also the death of her husband, was carried off by the fiends. More than one poor wretch crawled from burning wagons, after the ropes which bound them had burned off, only to burn too blackened, unrecognizable masses, with their charred hands and faces raised in positions of entreaty. The train had nine men with it. The remainder of the party were women and children. It is feared one woman was taken away by the band, though it is possible that she as well as the other body unaccounted for was burned to ashes with the wagons. It is reported that the band consisted of from one hundred and twenty-five to one hundred and fifty men, and was composed of Indians, Mexicans and deserters from the army. A number of arms and supplies of ammunition were taken from the train by the band before burning it. How many arms I cannot say. It was the supply which was lately sent from the arsenal at San Antonio to Fort Stockton.

General Augur, in this report, expresses the opinion that the Indians came from Mexico, and this belief is sustained by the fact that Mexicans and deserters from colored regiments were with them, such deserters universally escaping into Mexico.

[ADV] A Glasgow Professor has just discovered that a mass of ice placed upon a wire gauze, will, upon the application of slight pressure, pass through the gauze, retaining its shape and nearly all its weight, and reappear a solid mass on the other side. Another phase of this singular principle is that a wire drawn across a mass of ice, hanging down and weighted at one end, will cut its way through the ice, pretty rapidly, while the ice will close up behind it and offer as firm resistance to any attempt at cle avage where the wire went through as at any other point. How little we know of the properties of things which are every day at our fingers' ends. A "Look-beyond-the-end-of-your-nose Club" is proposed, but, gracious Heavens! who shall escape the fatal black ball?

MICHIGAN.

The Miners' Strike—Leaders Arrested and Rescued.

DETROIT, May 16.—Information received from Houghton last night regarding the strike in the copper mines states that on Thursday morning a portion of the workmen were satisfied with the terms offered by the mining Superintendents, and declared their wish to go to work again. Upon proceeding to do so they were interfered with. The Sheriff being notified, he summoned one hundred special deputies from among the citizens of Hancock and Houghton to protect the workmen. Four of the leaders in the strike were arrested and placed under an armed guard of sixteen to take them to jail at Houghton, thirteen miles distant. The discontented miners rallied and started after the Sheriff. When one mile from Calumet six hundred armed strikers rescued the prisoners. The Sheriff's force, being so largely outnumbered, yielded the prisoners at the demand of the strikers, who made many threats in case they were interfered with, but injured none.

Many women joined in the attack on the guards. A meeting of the strikers was held on Tuesday afternoon. A few were in favor of resuming work, believing all they could reasonably ask for had been complied with by the mining Superintendents. The majority thought otherwise, and decided not to work except under the eight hour rule. They are all satisfied with the wages offered.

The arrival of the troops is anxiously awaited. The expectation of their presence so soon has already had some effect at Schoolcraft, Franklin, Quincy, and the Pewabic mines. Some men have returned to their work, and as far as heard from have not been interfered with. A few are clamorous and inclined to boisterous talk. As a rule the strikers are quiet but firm in their demands. Their leaders counsel temperance and sobriety, which up to the present time has not been infringed, and no injury has been done to property. The total number of persons now engaged in the strike and will not work themselves, or permit others to do so, is two thousand. The troops are expected to reach Houghton to-morrow, and it is supposed that the moral effect of their presence will be sufficient to restore order and obedience to the legal authorities. A number of miners are on their way, having been previously employed to work in the mines. The only danger apprehended now, is that they may be interfered with by discontented strikers. Mr. Agassiz, President of the Calumet and Hecla mines, has left Detroit, and will reach the scene of disturbance on Friday.

Terrific Mountain Fires in the Neighborhood of Tobyhanna.

SCRANTON, May 16.—A person, just returned from the scene of the terrific mountain fires in the neighborhood of Tobyhanna, reports that the village is entirely surrounded by fire. On Wednesday it swept up within a short distance of the saw mills, where thousands of feet of lumber were piled up. The villagers mustered all their force, and while an engine from Stroudsburg kept the lumber and ground wet around the mills, the villagers beat back the fire until they got it under control. Had it not been for a swamp, intervening between the town and the fire, there is no doubt but that the whole town of Tobyhanna would have been destroyed. From the northwest the fire worked around to the south of the town, burning a house and a barn, and also a house owned by Patrick Whalon. The people in that part of the town were picking up their household effects and loading them on wagons. Some fourteen families in this one locality were prepared to move in a moment's notice. The fire was burning very rapidly in the direction of these buildings, and the air is filled with sparks and burning branches. Shaw's hotel, in the center of the town, was on fire, but it was extinguished before much damage was done. Other buildings were on fire at different times. The people had to be continually on watch, as sparks were flying thick and fast, and everything being so very dry they set fire to whatever they fell on. The heat was so intense and the smoke so thick that they could not recognize a person ten feet distant, and at times could not see the sun for the dense smoke. The inhabitants of Tobyhanna, and those who have been there testify them, have had a terrible week of it, none of the men having slept for four nights.

THE WASHINGTON TREATY.

Official Papers Laid Before the Senate —Text of the President's Message and the British Draft of an Additional Article.

The following message of the President on the indirect damage question, was sent to the Senate in Washington on Monday:

To the Senate of the United States:

I transmit herewith the correspondence recently taken place respecting the divisions of opinion which have arisen between this Government and that of Great Britain with regard to the powers of the Tribunal of Arbitration created under the Treaty signed at Washington, May 8, 1871. I respectfully invite the attention of the Senate to the proposed article submitted by the British Government with the object of removing the differences which seem to threaten the prosecution of the arbitration, and request an expression by the Senate of their disposition in regard to advising and consenting to the formal adoption of an article such as is proposed by the British Government. The Senate is aware that the consultation with that body in advance of entering into agreements with foreign States has many precedents. In the early days of the Republic, General Washington repeatedly asked their advice upon pending questions with such powers. The most important precedent is that of the Oregon Boundary Treaty in 1846. The importance of the results hanging upon the present state of the Treaty with Great Britain leads me to follow these former precedents, and to desire the counsel of the Senate in advance of agreeing to the proposition of Great Britain. U. S. GRANT.

Washington, May 13, 1872.

The following is the proposal referred to; it is in the form of a telegram from General Schenck to Secretary Fish, and is dated London, May 10, 1872:

Lord Granville, a few moments since, submitted to me in person the following draft of an article which, if the Government of the United States think fit to adopt, will be accepted by Her Majesty's Government. I made no comment on it, but said I would telegraph it to you immediately:

WHEREAS, The Government of Her Britannic Majesty has contended, in recent correspondence with the Government of the United States, as follows, viz: That such indirect claims as those for the national losses, stated in the case presented on the part of the United States to the Tribunal of Arbitration at Geneva to have been sustained by the loss in the transfer of the American Commercial marine to the British flag, the enhanced payments of insurance, the prolongation of the war, and the addition of a large sum to the cost of the war, and the suppression of the rebellion—firstly, were not included in the Treaty of Washington; and further and secondly, should not be admitted in principal as growing out of the acts committed by particular vessels, alledged to have been enabled to commit depredations on the shipping of a belligerent, by reason of such want of due diligence in the performance of the neutral obligations as that which is imputed by the United States to Great Britian; and

Whereas, The President of the United States while adhering to his contention that the said claims were included in the Treaty, adopts for the future the principal contained in the second of the said contentions as far as to declare that it will hereafter guide the conduct of the Government of the United States, and the two countries are, therefore, agreed in this respect.

In consideration thereof, The President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, consents that he will make no claim on the part of the United States in respect of indirect losses as aforesaid before the Tribunal of Arbitration at Geneva.

Greeley Withdrawn from the Tribune.

The New York Tribune of May 15, contains the following:

"A CARD.—The Tribune has ceased to be a party organ, but the unexpected nomination of its editor at Cincinnati seems to involve it in new embarrassment. All must be aware the position of a journalist, who is at the same time a candidate, is at least irksome and difficult, that he is fettered in action and restrained in criticism by the knowledge that whatever he may say or do is closely scanned by thousands, eager to find in it what may be interpreted so as to annoy or perplex those who are supporting him as a candidate, and to whom his shackled condition will not permit him to be serviceable. The undersigned, therefore, withdraws absolutely from the conduct of the Tribune, and will henceforth, until further notice, exercise no control or supervision over its columns.

"HORACE GREELEY."

The editorial management of the Tribune of course falls on Whitelaw Reid, Esq.

Castoria—is a scientific vegetable preparation; a perfect substitute for and more effective than Castor Oil, and is pleasant to take. It cleanses the system in the most remarkable manner; does not distress or gripe, but operates when all other remedies have failed. It is certain to supersede Paregoric, Castor Oil, Narcotic syrups and all other purgative and exciting medicines. The Castoria contains neither Minerals, Morphine nor Alcohol. By its emolient, soothing effect, it assimilates the food and produces natural sleep particularly adapting it to young and teething children. It cures Sick Headache, Wind Colic, Constipation, Flatulency, Croup and kills Worms. Make your druggist send for it; he will always keep it, as every family must have it. It costs but fifty cents a bottle. may3;4w

Methodism is becoming huge in extent and vast in numbers. In the centenary year, the various branches in America were estimated at 2,000,000 of people. An Industrious Hen.—Says the Pittsburgh Commercial: "Our correspondent at Darlington vouches for the truth of the following story:

Milo Bradshaw, of South Beaver Township, Beaver county, has a hen one year old, that he "set" in the month of March, giving her thirteen eggs. She hatched out thirteen chickens and had ten eggs left in the nest of her own, laid while she was "setting." Those ten eggs he put under another hen, and put the former hen in the coop, and gave her the ten chickens as soon as they were hatched out, making in all twenty-three chickens.

About eighteen days from the time she was put in the coop she commenced laying and lays every day, and takes care of her family of twenty-three chickens. Who can beat that? Mr. B. has six hens raising 122 chickens. The above are facts."

Tit for Tat.—Domestic Infelicity.—The Monongahela Republican of the 23d inst., contained the following:

NOTICE.—My wife, Caroline Steerley, left me about two months ago; she left with an ugly lace peddler with a scar below his right eye, and I want her to come back to me. All will be well, I am very busy as a stone mason, and want her to come back just as quick as she can, and behave herself, or else I will get another woman. She is a German woman. Let every body tell her to come back right away. If her whereabouts is known please write to me, a forsaken man, in West Newton, Pennsylvania post office.

JACOB STEERLEY.

The advertised wife, not relishing the publication, "went for" the said Jacob in this caustic style in the Republican of last week:

TAKE NOTICE.—Jacob Steerley's lost woman is in Monongahela City, and has not been with an ugly lace peddler with a scar below his right eye, but she has been peddling lace herself to keep him, for he dont do anything but drink whiskey—and if he was with another woman he can get one, if any body will have the old fool. But nobody ever saw me with another man since I got Jacob, the old wretch. He is as jealous as the devil can make him. If he is so jealous he should not send me away for two or three months to get money to pay his whisky bill, for he ought to pay for his own rum, then I could stay at home.

CAROLINE STEERLEY.

Work and Win.—Whatever you try to do in life, try with all your heart to do well; whatever you devote yourself to, devote yourself to completely; in great aims and small be thoroughly in earnest. Never believe it possible that any natural or improved ability can claim immunity from the companionship of the steady, plain hard-working qualities, and hope gain a friend. There is no such thing as such fulfillment on this earth. Some happy talent and some fortunate opportunity may form the two sides of the ladder on which some men mount, but the rounds of that ladder must be made of stuff to stand wear and tear; and there is no substitute for the thorough-going, ardent and sincere earnestness, which put one hand to anything on which you cannot throw your whole self; never affect depreciation of your work, whatever it is. These you will find to be golden rules.

THE MAY NUMBER of the illustrated "People's Monthly," of Pittsburgh, is at hand, and is full, as usual, with illustrations and interesting family reading matter. The full page illustrations are a portrait of Prof. Morse, the Ship of the Desert, and a magnificent specimen of St. Bernard Dogs finding a Traveler in the Snow, accompanied by a full description of the Hospice and Dogs. The "Household," and "Boys and Girls" departments (always appropriately illustrated), of this pure family Monthly, grow more interesting with each Number. The exciting Historical Serial of old Fort Duquesne is continued, accompanied by two good illustrations. The price of this deserving Western Enterprise, is only $1.50. Agents wanted on good Commission.

River Improvement.—Thursday last a meeting of those interested in the navigation of the Ohio river was held in Pittsburgh for the purpose of having a consultation with General Wetzel and Colonel William S. Merrill, relative to the plans for the proposed improvement of the Ohio. Colonel Merrill stated that he was desirous of learning from the practical men who were present what they believed to be most required for safe and easy navigation.

After some discussion the meeting agreed upon a resolution offered by Mr. Simpson Horner, providing that the dam near the foot of Brunot's Island be elevated to a height of eight feet, and that the middle bar and other obstructed portions of the river bed be dredged. There was some opposition to the first resolution, but as the votes were to be inconsiderable, it was carried by the tide sweeps on.

Each day's events add a new chapter to the marvellous story, which the Press is sure to spread with lightning speed the world over; and soon there flock from "every nation and kindred and people and tongue under the whole heavens"—adventurers, the "land hungry land"—sturdy men and brave women who come with a purpose, pioneers in a great work which imagination fails to picture even in the faintest colors.

The lands offered for sale along the various lines of railroad have naturally proved most attractive to settlers. Government has wisely aided these enterprises by granting of her lands to Corporations who have had the pluck and energy to build Roads through her as yet undeveloped fields, and which have been held for ages at a mere nominal price, failing the while to find purchasers or development for means and purposes. She has in many instances, given alternate sections along the lines of these roads, on either side, and by this seeming liberality has made the remaining portion quickly available, insuring for it also a value greater than that of the whole before the gratuity.

Doubtless there have been some unwise grants, for there is a limit to all things; but as a rule, Government and the people have been large gainers by her liberality to these transportation enterprises.

But how are these enterprises in a new land made successful? They require settlers along their lines and business over their roads, and in aid of this the printer has his full share to do. The natural resources of the region must be made known, and the waiting multitudes invited to come in and possess the land.

A bird's-eye view shows a rich country, varying of course in natural attractions; but granting that all were equally rich and attractive, the density of population is doubtless distributed very nearly in proportion to the information which has been given to the public concerning the various lines of railroad, and the region through which each passes.

Some regions are comparatively unsettled because their attractions are unknown; the Roads through them are built slowly and at great disadvantage, and with but little prospect of profitable returns at present, while numerous instances demonstrate an entirely different state of affairs, as a single prominent case may illustrate.

Published reports state that the Burlington and Missouri River Railroad Co., whose trunk line of 470 miles extends from Burlington on the Mississippi River, across the entire State of Iowa, and through that rich portion of Southern Nebraska bordering upon the Platte River, to Fort Kearney, where it makes a junction with the Union Pacific Railroad for through traffic to the Pacific Coast, have sold during the last seven years 352,320 acres of land, for something over three and a half millions of dollars—nearly all of it to actual settlers, and if report be true, they have never asked a man to buy!

By a judicious system of advertising they have scattered information broadcast over the land, in the form of facts relating to the region through which their Road passes, so that a perfect tide of emigration has set toward that particular section, and farmers call for their lands as children do for Brandreth's pills.

Their advertisements are prominent in all the papers; their large and beautiful cards attract attention in every depot in the land; they distribute gratuitously millions of circulars, maps and other documents relating especially to their land and passenger interests, containing plain facts in which all are interested, and on which all may rely. These are published in English, German, Swedish and Norwegian, and distributed all over this country and Europe. Their mailing department alone, which is as systematically arranged as that of any newspaper establishment, affords employment to from twelve to twenty persons, and all simply to circulate facts among the people.

It is true that their lands are exceedingly beautiful and fertile, and present attractions and advantages of locality, soil and climate, which are essential, in the estimation of farmers, probably unsurpassed by any region in the world: but it is mainly by the printer's art that the world has come to know it, and in addition to cultivated fields, trade, manufactures, arts, science, and all the attendants of refinement and luxury which enterprise can introduce and thrift maintain, are following rapidly the march of settlement.

Their lands already sold are wonderfully improved, and the increase in value is large—in some cases almost incredible.

Much equally good land remains unsold; can be bought of the Railroad Co. at low prices, on a credit of ten years, at six per cent. interest, and with equally good prospects of steady and large increase in value.

And so the west is being peopled! But even now few, comparatively, have any idea of what that country is, the lay of the land even, or its peculiar attractions. An Eastern man cannot comprehend it; he has nothing with which to compare it; maps, guides and circulars all are familiar with, but something more is wanted, and to meet this want the Land Commissioner of the Railroad Company referred to has recently published, for gratuitous distribution, a series of truthful representations of various points along the line of that Road, which afford, probably, a better idea of the lay of the land, the general appearance and characteristics of the country, than is to be had from the most elaborate written description.

These are finely engraved, and will doubtless, soon adorn the table of every farmer in the land, and exert an important influence in giving direction to many who are looking to the West for their future homes.

Now call it advertising or what we will, this peopleing of the West, and the great business traffic of the West, is simply a legitimate result of putting facts before the people.

Doubtless the expenditure of money is large, but the sum is small compared with the results realized even now, in the infancy of the great work.

Those who live at the East, and have not actually witnessed the "tide of emigration" as it is flowing can have no possible comprehension of it.

People from all sections of the country, and indeed from all parts of the world, are literally "pouring in like a flood." And why? Because it is a "good-ly land," and the story of it is spread in all the earth.

Who can predict the future of it? If there is a prophet in the land, his pen can write nothing more marvelous than the story of these regions a century in advance.

Our poet, WHITTIER, has well said:

"I hear the tread of pioneers:
Of nations yet to be;
The first low wash of waves where soon
Shall roll a human sea.

"The rudiments of empire here
Are plastic yet and warm;
The chaos of a mighty world
Is rounding into form."

The greatest of questions pertaining to social, political, religious and business interests are involved in the progress of events inevitable to occur in the West, and the Press is the mighty agency which is now and ever must be most powerful to direct and move all.

It would be difficult to say to whom these facts appeal most strongly.

Certainly those who are thinking of the West as their future homes should read the papers, advertisements and all, and then take a look at the "promised land." And to the business man, whatever his vocation or profession, the lesson is plain. Read what other people have to say about their business, and advertise your own. Do this liberally, too, and so sure as the Scriptures are true, just so sure you will find profit in it; for we read that "The liberal soul shall be made fat," and "There is that scattereth, yet increaseth, and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, and it tendeth to poverty."

Patronize the printer, and improve the first opportunity to take a look beyond the Mississippi. T. H. L.

The congregations of Remington Robbins and Oakland, in the Beaver Valley Presbytery, have united in a unanimous call for the pastoral services of Rev. J. C. Evans, and his early settlement in this encouraging field is confidently anticipated.

Old Folks Concert.—The ladies of Rochester request us to announce that an "Old Folks Concert," by native talent, will be given, under their auspices at the Methodist Episcopal Church in Bridgewater, on Thursday and Friday evenings next, for the benefit of this Protestant Episcopal Church of Rochester, and M. E. Church of Bridgewater. Admission 50 cents. The Concert will be a good one, and the object a laudable one. Let there be a full house on both nights.

The Senatorial Contest.

BEAVER COUNTY, May 13th, 1872.

MESSRS. EDITORS OF GAZETTE:—I perused the letter from Beaver county in to-day's Gazette headed Rutan vs. Dravo. Lest its strongest arguments, to wit: that the writer had read the Gazette for forty years, and also the age of the correspondent might give his admonitions undue influence, I deem it my duty (although much younger than he claims to be,) to resist the attack which he makes upon those who will not fall meekly to be by prejudices and Mr. Rutan pilots us to destruction. Mr. Buchannan claimed to be as great and intelligent a chief as this veteran who asserts that he is the leading republican of New Brighton and this county, yet age did not bring wisdom to that leader. He saw the people move. Experience opened his eyes to the fact that principles are more continuing than men. As the writer of that letter has told us who he is, I will inform him in return that I voted for Mr. Rutan and Dr. Shurlock both times, and (since I became of age which is several years,) I have always, without any exception voted the Republican ticket, save once I cast a vote for a Democrat. Now I am not General Irwin, but one of the bolters as he has been pleased to term us. For this reason, I believe the Republican principles are honesty, and justice to all. When a man whom I know beyond a doubt strives to defeat the operations, and improvements made in his county by honest men, and uses his influence to drive out enterprises to satisfy his own ambitious aims, asks the suffrage of the Republican party to place him in office where he may carry out his purposes,—then if my great-grand father should order a halt, the is Republican I cry out to such politicians, "get behind you shall not represent me; "If that be bolting make the most of it." If space were allowed we could show the people of our county some acts concerning our county improvements, which every thinking voter would condemn in casting his suffrage for a change in the Senate. Mr. Dravo must, indeed, have felt proud on last Friday evening, to have seen in his audience such men as the venerable Mr. Critchlow, whose dignified form and white hair exhibits his exemplary life, and the energies that have been expended in benefiting his fellow citizens. The statesman looking head of Mr. Kennedy who has represented his fellow citizens in the Legislature, and is now conducting one of our largest manufacturing establishments, not to speak of Mr. Alexander and the many noble characters who attended the meeting in New Brighton, while the scary Republicans waited the bidding of their leaders. For such unheard precedents as candidates addressing the public without order, must not be encouraged or the people might know as much as the leaders. But the veteran writer seems to be troubled that the Gazette has got to be some pumpkins, and he cannot close the mouths and ears of all who favor free speech and free press. He avers he is the leading Republican of New Brighton, and this county generally, knows more than the Gazette, and then adroitly asks the people to have confidence in his judgment for he has been serving his party as a politician for fifty years, and they never have made him a candidate for any office. What stronger argument can you bring against Mr. Rutan's nomination, or popularity than that veteran's ask for him while the enterprising public wish to be represented by such self-made men as John F. Dravo, esq., who has by his industry lifted his family to independence, standing high in the estimation of his neighbors, and now when principles dictate he has taken his position in the field to fight or nobly die. "Venerable correspondent, you have come down to us as a former generation," but you have failed to call up the example of Mr. Lincoln, following Mr. Douglass in debate to prove that right will prevail. Now could you not advance the Republican cause by advising Mr. Rutan to have some of the pluck of John "Old Grant," and come before the people of Beaver Falls next Thursday evening, at which time Mr. Dravo has consented to speak. The people may then vote intelligently upon merits of candidates to represent them. Yours truly,

ADVANCE.

About noon, on Tuesday a black-snake appeared at a basement window of Peter Young's house in Columbiana Co., Ohio, with his head lifted and peering in through the glass, as if desirous of making acquaintance. Aylmer Banks in was at hand with his shot gun, and at once put his snakeship in a condition for measurement. Length, four and a half feet: circumference of thickest part, about four inches. It is said of these reptiles, "wherever there is one, there may be two." In about half an hour snake number two lifted its head at the same pane of glass, and met a similar fate at the hands of the same marksman.

[For the Beaver Argus.

MR. EDITOR: "The Little Corporal," of "The Beaver Radical," is very much excited because I support honest John F. Dravo for State Senate in preference to J. S. Rutan. Well, I suppose I should explain to the little gambler why I do so.

To begin with, John F. Dravo is an honest man, a true Republican, a thorough, hard-fisted working man, and a Christian gentleman in every particular; while J. S. Rutan is an unmitigated fraud, who cannot be believed even under oath, as can be proven by his affidavits published in 1870; besides, he is the supple tool of the 'Cameron-treasury-ring,' whose thimble-rigger and lobbyist is M. S. Quay.

Mr. Rutan is not true to the best interests of his district and if re-elected to the Senate he will vote for Simon Cameron's return to the U. S. Senate; and there are not twenty respectable men in this county in favor of sending that old political swindler back to Washington; the country has been cursed long enough with him.

Again, J. S. Rutan procured his first nomination through fraud, an I afterwards bargained with and assisted in the election of John Graebing, democrat, (an excellent officer by the way) as Sheriff, because he (Rutan) was so unpopular that he could not be elected by Republican votes alone. He is just as obnoxious to honest Republicans now as he was at that time, and his nomination will lose us the district for the Senate, and possibly the whole county ticket. If he be nominated at all, it will only be through the same fraudulent means heretofore used; himself and his master are now actively distributing the money of the Cameron-treasury ring corruption fund throughout every borough and township in this county among those who wear the ring collar. They pay their toadies five dollars a day to hound or buy the good people to Rutan's support.

Again, Rutan is master of neither trade, business, nor profession. He never worked a day in his life with his hands. He is not even a trusty fourth-rate lawyer; he is simply a political tool.

The above are some of the reasons why I am for Dravo against Rutan, and I trust M. S. Quay will deem them satisfactory.

As to Rutan's position with the various candidates for Sheriff, in talking with intelligent people in New-Brighton, Beaver Falls, Fallston, Bridgewater and Darlington, I have found the situation thus: In Beaver Falls he is for Mr. Chamberlin White; in New Brighton he is for Capt. C. K. Chamberlin and John Boyles; in Bridgewater he is for Capt. Darragh; in Darlington and South Beaver he is for J. P. Martin, the brother-in-law of D. L. Imbrie, who demands his nomination from the 'ring,' and I think him right in doing it, as he has remained here in Beaver for years, going to the good people as they come along that Quay, Rutan & Co. were playing the rascal at Harrisburg. Another reason why J. P. Martin—Imbrie's brother in-law—should be nominated is, that D. L. Imbrie himself has steadily and persistently declined to be elected to any office (except justice of the peace) ever since he voted for the memorable bill repealing the tonage tax during his term in the State Senate in 1861, thereby taking eight hundred thousand dollars annually from the State treasury, in hard cash; and since that event has contented himself in retirary at his railroad house in Beaver, subsisting on what he did not lose by voting for that iniquitous measure.

I do not censure Imbrie nor Quay for supporting Martin because "they know how." It is themselves, "they have been the," a gentlemen in New Brighton, who wears the "ring" collar, said to me that there was an absolute necessity for the renomination of Rutan, otherwise there would be trouble. I can tell you where the trouble is. It is in the 'Treasury Ring' and must not be exposed. I was Treasurer two years; you had no trouble about "treasury rings" then. I paid more State debt than any Treasurer ever did in this State; but you elected a brace of unreliable scalawags—Rutan and Shurlock—who violated their pledges and sold out to the "treasury ring," to which the former now belongs, while poor Shurlock is left soliloquizing on what he so often repeated to me without solicitation: "That he told Quay he would not go back on Irwin for any money that could be named." And affidavit man Rutan said he "told Quay he would not take $20,000 and go back on Irwin," and the very next night he sold out for less than half of that sum. If he is re elected he will sell his constituents' interests to the highest bidder.

The "Little Corporal" charges that I voted against Dr. Stanton for Auditor General. In this he deliberately lies, and proves that the veteran writer seems to be troubled that the Gazette has got to be some pumpkins, and he cannot close the mouths and ears of all who favor free speech and free press. He avers he is the leading Republican of New Brighton, and this county generally, knows more than the Gazette, and then adroitly asks the people to have confidence in his judgment for he has been serving his party as a politician for fifty years, and they never have made him a candidate for any office. What stronger argument can you bring against Mr. Rutan's nomination, or popularity than that veteran's ask for him while the enterprising public wish to be represented by such self-made men as John F. Dravo, esq., who has by his industry lifted his family to independence, standing high in the estimation of his neighbors, and now when principles dictate he has taken his position in the field to fight or nobly die. How is the Great West Peopled?

—Few of the great movements of the present age are better illustrative of "the power of the Press" than the wonderful peopling of the Western portion of our great continent, especially those regions which lay beyond the Mississippi River.

Step by step the course of civilization and settlement advanced toward the Misaissippi; but for a considerable time this seemed to be a barrier to further progress. A few, however, hardy adventurers, crossed from time to time; some to remain, others to return and tell their stories, for large almost for comprehension or belief.

To most of us, beyond was a wilderness, the "Great American Desert" then, but now it proves to be "the Garden of the West," which literally "blossoms like the rose."

The census returns of the United States show that there were never in the history of the world, such marvels of rise and progress as are exhibited in the plain facts there shown concerning some of the recent towns and cities in this region, which have grown up, as it were in a night, almost like that magic city of the Arabian story.

Those vast expanses of land, for centuries the hunting grounds of the Indians and the home of the buffalo, have been in a few months brought completely under the dominion of civilization and made valuable and available for the benefit of the entire human race.

And how has this been accomplished? Those wonderful men, editors, reporters, travelers and correspondents, who see and hear of everything, who make a note of things and print them, too, have filled the land with pleasing narratives of the West in all its natural greatness.

First of all, its agricultural attractions are prominent, and thoughtful farmers at the East, who have struggled life-long on a few acres, with three, four, or perhaps six boys to follow them, seeing small prospect of profit, or even a living for half of them, have looked with eager eyes to these larger fields and this "better land;" one and another have gone forward, found their anticipations more than realized, have written home the story of their experience, and young America has followed in their steps, and so the pioneers of this great work have gone on.

Shrewd business men, who read the papers, were quick to see the chances for business in all its varied and extensive which were sure to rise from the peopling of such a region.

Railroads are projected and built, the great river is bridged, enterprise is ready and ever pressing on; towns, villages and cities spring up; trade and traffic follow; a school-house, church and newspaper are among the first established, and so the tide sweeps on.

Each day's events add a new chapter to the marvellous story, which the Press is sure to spread with lightning speed the world over; and soon there flock from "every nation and kindred and people and tongue under the whole heavens"—adventurers, the "land hungry land"—sturdy men and brave women who come with a purpose, pioneers in a great work which imagination fails to picture even in the faintest colors.

It is true that their lands are exceedingly beautiful and fertile, and present attractions and advantages of locality, soil and climate, which are essential, in the estimation of farmers, probably unsurpassed by any region in the world:

Castles in the Air.—What a dull, dreary world this would be without hope! Faith makes bigots, but hope makes cheer and forgetfulness of the present. A correspondent gives a glowing description of air-castle building, which reads like a volume of poetry, bound in the daintiest blue and gold.

"What a world of day-dreaming and castle-building we all do!" says this writer. "The Irishman at his spade, the seamstress at her needle, the housewife at her domestic duties, the boy at school, the merchant at business? All of us are at home in a realm in which we are generals, statesmen, poets, philanthropists, millionaires, kings of the turf, champions of the boat race, just in accordance with our tastes; all of us in a realm in which we force some great general to surrender, emancipate every slave in creation, pull the stroke-oar in the international race on the Thames, make hundreds of poor families rich and happy, or plant the national banner, in patriotic enthusiasm, in a hole drilled exactly at the North Pole. Who so penniless or abject but he habitually enters at will a stately kingdom in which he owns countless acres, palaces for himself and ex-ladies and lords, and wine-cellars, seats, picture-galleries, parks, yachts, and hilariously enjoys the nicest possible holidays, giving parties, making his tenantry happy, winning the prize-cup in his schooner "Mary" or "Alice," named after his dear wife or blue-eyed sweetheart, whose face lighted up so rapturously when for the first time he rowed her round under the stern and showed her own name there in gleaming letters of gold.

Meanwhile, perhaps, the commonplace facts, that we are not worth a guinea, do not own a strip of land, do not know the trigger from the hammer of a musket, are tenants ourselves, only blow the organ for the orchestra, and have just been threatened with losing our place if we no not blow better.

Don't Hurry.

Believe in traveling on step by step; don't expect to be rich at a jump. Slow and sure is better than fast and flimsy. Perseverance by its daily gains, enriches a man far more than fits and starts of fortunate speculation. Little fishes are sweet. Every day a thread makes a skein in a year. Brick by brick houses are built. We should creep before we walk, walk before we run, and run before we ride. In getting rich, the more haste the worse speed. Haste trips up its own heels.

Don't give up a small business till you see that a larger one will pay you better. Even crumbs are bread. Better a little furniture than an empty house. In these hard times, he who can sit on a stone and feed himself had better not move. From bad to worse is poor improvement. A crust is hard fare but none at all is harder.—Don't jump out of the frying pan into the fire. Remember many men have done well in small shops. A little trade with small profit, is more desirable than a great concern with loss; a small fire that warms you is better than a large one that burns you. A great deal of water may be got from a small pipe, if the bucket is always there to catch it. Large hares may be caught in small woods. A sheep may get fat in a small meadow, and starve in a great desert. He who undertakes too much succeeds but little.

☞ The Pennsylvania canal is now in first-class order, and many boats are passing Harrisburg for Baltimore and Philadelphia, with the products of the northern and western tier of counties. Coal, grain and lumber are the principle freights carried. The coal, as yet, being chiefly from the Millersburg region.

Ingenuity of Burglars.

The Worcester Spy says: There was a burglary in an Albany jewelry store on the night of the 21 inst., and one of several skillful devices to which the burglars resorted to prevent detection while operating upon the safe was as follows: On a on the safe was as follows: On a work bench on the south side of the work bench on the south side of the shop a small looking glass is placed, shop a small looking glass is placed, in front of which is a gas burner. in front of which is a gas burner. This small glass reflects the back of This small glass reflects the back of the safe on the large glass, and those the safe on the large glass, and those who pass in the store have a full who pass in the store have a full view of it. The burglars, to conceal view of it. The burglars, to conceal their operations, had prepared a curtain made of dark green muslin, across which black muslin stripes were sewed. This muslin was tacked on small wooden strips after the burglars entered the premises, and hung over the large mirror. It was well calculated to deceive the patroling watchman, and, but for his suspicion being aroused early in the evening by observing two or three strange characters in the vicinity, they might have operated successfully. On passing the door he noticed the reflection of the back of the safe was darker than usual. Receiving no response from the inside watchman, his suspicion that something was wrong was strengthened, and breaking open the doors, found that his interference had been too long delayed, for the robbers had retreated.

"That's a Man."

A farmer in Illinois had a neighbor across the Wabash, in Indiana, who was keeping a pauper on contract at his house. In the corn hoeing season the Illinois man sometimes borrowed his neighbor's pauper to work in the cornfield. It was very soon rumored about that old Bill Turner had a pauper working for him; and as none of the people in the neighborhood had ever seen a pauper they were anxious to get a peep at him. Consequently some twenty of them joined together one day, armed with their shot guns and rifles, went over to Turner's to see the strange creature. They got cautiously over the fence, and came up to where the men were working.

"Bill," said Silas Brown their spokesman, "we've heard that you've got a pauper working for you and we'd like to see it."

Bill then pointed out the object of their curiosity. The visitors walked around the astonished pauper and silently surveyed him from every point of view. At last Silas spoke:

"Look here, Bill Turner," said he, "you can't fool us; that's a man!"

We wish all those in charge of charitable institutions had the same idea about paupers as Silas had.—Hearth and Home.

An Obituary.

Jem Bangs, we are sorry to state has deceased. He departed this life last Friday. He went 4th, without any struggle, and "sich is life." Today we are pepper grass—mighty smart and easy—tu morrer we are cut down like a cowcumber of the ground. Jem kept a nice store which his wife waits on. His virchews were numerous to behold. We happy 2 state 2 the admired world that he never cheated, specially in the wait of makrel, which wos nice, and smelt sweet, and his survivin' wife is the same. We never knew him 2 put sand in his sugar, though he had a big sand barin front of his house, nor water his Likers, though the Ohio River run past his door.—Pece 2 his remains.

he died in hasbed,
a great book he read,
a prayer he offered oft,
then turned over on 2 his bed,
and durned if he didn't die deed.

He leaves 1 wife, 10 children, 1 cow, 4 horses, a grocery store and other quapruped to mourn his loss—but in the language of the poet, his loss is their gain. Sich is life again.

Factories and machine shops should not be allowed to run a day without Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. In case of a sudden accident, an immediate use of it may save weeks of suffering, and perhaps a limb, or even a life.

Joyful Journey.

The ways of life, although chequered over with pain and suffering, can be greatly smoothed over by a careful attention to the health of the body.

Do not let disease fasten on the strongholds of life before you do something for it. We speak more particularly of those chronic maladies which cling to us for years with untold misery, not bad enough to make us bed-sick, but still full of suffering and anxiety. Among these lingering ailments are those of the lungs and pulmonary organs for which people have been made to believe there is no cure. Do not believe it, but try. Try Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure. It will renew the energies of life and make its machinery roll with evenness and harmony. Not only in Lung diseases is Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure of value, but in all those morbid states of the system where energy is wanting and where dullnes abounds. Sold at 167 Liberty street, Pittsburgh, at $1,50 per bottle, or 4 for $5.00.

A Test Vote.

The system of voting has, from the earliest ages, been considered the true mode of giving an expression of public opinion, if, indeed, it is not the best one. However much opinions may differ, the voice of majorities is always conclusive. The latest proof of this axiom comes to us in the realm of the sewing machine business. From public statistics, it appears that the Chicago Relief Committee, which was instructed to furnish sewing machines to those persons needing them, shipped 2,427 Singer machines, against 517 of all other kinds. As the applicants for machines were allowed their choice, these figures prove that nearly five times as many persons preferred the Singer as selected others. This is a genuine expression of popular confidence and approval. Messrs. Straw & Morton, No. 24 Sixth street, are the agents for Pittsburgh and vicinity.

☞ There are several kinds of worms which trouble horses; the pinworms pointed at both ends are the most common and most dangerous. Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders will in a few days eject the worms, and the horse will begin to thrive.

THE HISTORY OF A NATIONAL REMEDY.—Here is the history of the most celebrated tonic of the age in a nutshell. In 1860 it was announced that a certain combination of vegetable ingredients, with a pure diffusive stimulant, was working wonders in the cure of Chronic dyspepsia, nervous debility, liver complaint, periodical fevers, rheumatism and constitutional weakness. The unpretending name given to the specific was Plantation Bitters. The statement attracted the attention of invalids everywhere. The new remedy received a fair trial, and the results more than confirmed all that had been said in its praise. Thence forward it was a grand success. The business columns of the press spread the glorious news far and wide, and the martyrs to indigestion, biliousness, physical prostration and premature decay, as if by common consent, sought relief from the new vegetable restorative. They found what they sought. From that time to the present the increase in the demand for Plantation Bitters has been one of the most striking events in this age.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Scrofula or morbid deposits in the lung, joints and Tissues. These medicines have rendered this disease a less formidable scourge than formerly. It has been incontestably proved that in Scrofulous affections they have effected thousands of cures. Sold everywhere. 25 cents per box or pot.

MELANGE.

☞ Cuffy said he would rather die by a railroad smashup than by a steamboat burst up, for this reason: "If you gets off and is smashed up, dar you is; but if you gets blown up on de boat, where is you?"

☞ Walter, a five-year old, was surprised at breakfast at the presence of a diminuitive egg served for his special delectation. He thus accounted for the egg's smallness: "Mamma I think the chicken was learning to lay."

☞ A New York farmer laughed when his wife advised him not to smoke on a load of hay. He footed it home that night with his hair singed, most of his garments a prey to the devouring elements, and the iron work of the wagon in a potato sack; and then his wife laughed.

☞ The man who stood half an hour in a church vestibule, and then twenty minutes in the aisle, without being offered a seat, is decidedly opposed to having "God put into the Constitution," at present. He thinks that it would be better to try the experiment of putting a little more godliness into the churches first.

☞ "Mr. James," said a clergyman on a pastoral visit, "I don't see you and Mrs. James at church Sunday evenings." "Well, no," replied Mr. James, "my wife has to stay at home and take care of the children, and as it comes rather hard on her, I stay at home to keep her company." "Why, how is that? don't you keep any servants?" "Oh yes we keep two, but they don't allow us any privileges."

☞ A schoolmaster tells the following good one: I was once teaching in a quiet country village. The second morning of the session I had time to survey my surroundings, and among the scanty furniture I espied a three-legged stool. "Is this the dunce block?" I asked a little girl of five years. The dark eyes sparkled, the curls nodded assent, and the lips rippled out, "I guess so, the teacher always sits on it."

☞ A prepossessing and ladylike girl a few days ago was detected in stealing a pair of silk hose in a Boston store. On being approached and reproached by one of the proprietors she began to weep pearly tears and offered him $20. He magnanimously charged her only the regular price of the hose and handed her back the change. Her artless guile was remembered by him with a tender smile till it was discovered the bill she gave was a counterfeit.

☞ An old lady of Williams county, Ill., who had never seen a railroad, made up her mind to visit Cardondale on the "next train." She seated herself on the platform at Marion, and presently the train moved off slowly. The station master interrogates the old lady, who sits placidly in her chair watching the departing train: "Why did you not get on, if you wished to go to Cardondale?" "Git on!" said the old lady, "git on! I thought this whole consarn went too."

☞ A young married woman publicly horsewhipped her own brother upon the second National Bank in Titusville the other evening. The victim is about twenty-three years of age, and his alleged offence is circulating reports prejudicial to his sister's reputation.—Whether her character was vindicated by such demonstration does not appear; but in view of the relation of the parties, it was generally voted that the young man deserved a thrashing, for if his sister had gone astray the brother should have tried other means to reclaim her.

—The emigration from Ireland to the United States promises to be greater this year than for a long time past, and a Cork paper says that the people leaving generally appear to be of the family class and in good circumstances They are principally from the counties of Tipperary, Limerick, and the Northern part of the county of Cork. One line of steamships has been obliged to put on extra ships to accommodate the rush of passengers, and the other lines have been compelled to duplicate its potent power to cure them.

Not only does the KENNEDY'S ROSEBUD OINTMENT excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional, and Skin diseases; but it is the only positive cure for Kidney & Bladder Complaints, Urinary, and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetis, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brickdust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like white silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white loose-dust deposits, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the small of the Back and along the Loins. Price, $1.00.

Tumor of 12 Years' Growth Cured by Radway's Resolvent.

BEVERLY, Mass., July 31, 1871.

DR. RADWAY.—I have had a Tumor in the stomach and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it," I tried every thing that was recommended, but none helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it, but had no faith in it, because I had suffered so for seven years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief, and there is not a sign of tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter, and happier than I have for two years. The worst known as a ball, left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH F. ROANE.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE — FREE FROM — ALCOHOL

PURELY — DR. WALKER'S — CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Vinegar Bitters are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the Great Blood Purifier and all-Healing Principle, a Perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition, enriching it, refreshing and invigorating both mind and body. They are easy of administration, prompt in their action, certain in their results, safe and reliable in all forms of disease

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion. Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. In these complaints it has no equal, and one bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, and in Bilious Diseases.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Grateful thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist: There is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

Mechanical Diseases. Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Painters, Type-setters, Gold beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, will be subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS once or twice a week, as a Preventive.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored vitiated matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and general system, restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goiter, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters act on all these cases in a similar manner. By purifying the Blood they remove the cause, and by resolving away the effects of the inflammation, (the tubercular deposits) the affected parts receive health, and a permanent cure is effected.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic and Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

The Aperient and mild Laxative properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are the best safe-guard in all cases of eruptions and malignant fevers, their balsamic, healing, and soothing properties protect the humors of the fauces. Their Sedative properties allay pain in the nervous system, stomach, and bowels, either from inflammation, wind, colic, cramps, etc. Their Counter-Irritant influence extends throughout the system. Their Anti-Bilious properties stimulate the liver, in the secretion of bile, and its discharges through the biliary ducts, and are superior to all remedial agents, for the cure of Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, etc.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus forearmed.

Directions.—Take of the Bitters on going to bed at night from a half to one and one-half wineglassfull. Eat good nourishing food, such as beefsteak, mutton chop, venison, roast beef, and vegetables, and take out-door exercise. They are not composed of purely vegetable ingredients, and contain no spirit.
